COMMITTED A VOP OR VOCC

The court has been made aware that this Probationer comes within the scope of Florida Statute §948.06(8)(e), violent felony offender of special concern.

A violation of probation hearing has been conducted. The Court finds that the Probationer has committed a violation of probation or community control.

Therefore, the Court makes the following written findings as to whether or not the Probationer poses a “danger to the community.” In determining the danger to the community the statute requires the Court to base its findings on one or more of the following factors:

1. Nature & circumstances of the violation and any new offense charged:

2. Defendant’s present conduct, including criminal convictions:

3. Defendant’s amenability to non-incarcerative sanctions based on history and conduct during current or past supervision periods, including disciplinary records of previous incarcerations.

4. Weight of the evidence against defendant.

5. Any other relevant facts that the Court deems important.

After determining the foregoing, then the Court is to decide whether or not to revoke probation or community control.

6. If the Court finds that a violent felony offender of special concern poses a danger to the community, it must revoke probation and sentence up to the statutory maximum or longer if permitted by law.

_____ The Court DOES FIND that this Defendant/Probationer poses a danger to the community. Probation is revoked and terminated. Defendant is adjudicated and sentenced to the maximum or long if permitted by law of _____ months in the Department of Corrections. Credit for Orange county Jail time served is _____ days, plus any previous D.O.C. time.

_____ The Court DOES NOT FIND that the Defendant/Probationer is a danger to the community. Therefore, the Court modifies probation or community control as stated in the disposition Order of this date.
